To whom it may concern,

I would like to express my opposition on some proposed regulations.

First off the ban on lead ammunition for hunting. This does nothing but punish hunters. Non lead hunting ammunition costs twice as much for one.

Two, how many hunters go out and shoot a deer and leave it? The minimal amount of lead inside the animal comes home with the hunter. This is nothing but an attack on hunters.

Next I want to express my opposition to creating seasons, bag limits and tags on coyotes. As you should know, you must keep California's predator population in check. The deer hunting in California is disappointing as it is, no need to make it worse to satisfy some anti hunting loud mouths!

California already has too many protected mountain lions. Bear hunting is now limited due to the dog ban. Add more coyotes and the deer will not have a chance. Oh and not to mention the idiots that would like to see wolves re-introduced to California. How's that working out for the states that already did that?

I know these special interest groups have a lot of money, but come on let's do what's right for California hunters people!

Sincerely,

Kris Frazier
